Dear Harold,

I have received your letters of 8/6 and 8/9.

Earlier we discussed the possibility of an article to supplement your publication of the 1/27 transcript, and I sent you my ideas and an outline. Because of the new situation in Washington, and now that your book is nearing completion, I think an article would be appropriate.

A revised (but still not final) draft is enclosed. I plan to submit it first to the Nation, which might have a special interest because of the references to Feldman's article.

If you or Howard have any comments, I will be glad to take them into account.

Sincerely,

Paul
